STALEMATE IN PEACE EFFORT IS REPORTED

Financial Sanctions Against Italy in Effect Tuesday

War Summary

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last diplomatic link between Italy and Ethiopia was broken as the Italian minister left Addis Ababa.

British sources despaired of an early peace; British financial sanctions go into effect Tuesday.

An Italian drive began in the north to occupy the valley of the Faras Mai river, evidently a step preliminary to a movement on Makale.

Sporadic bombing and propaganda flights were made by Italians at the front; surrender of Ethiopian chiefs on both north and south fronts was reported.

Many circles in Addis Ababa entertained fears for the safety of the southern front.

Rome hoped the League of Nations "sanctionist machine" would be checked.

Brazil announced conclusion of an agreement to supply beef to Italy.

Informed French quarters said results of peace efforts likely will be submitted soon to the League's committee of five.

Speaking in the election campaign, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin said he would not sanction England's going into a naval blockade without assurance of the United States' attitude.

Sweden announced adherence to the arms embargo.

Italy was pictured as likely to demand a larger fleet at the London naval conference in December.

BULLETIN

Paris, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Official sources indicated today that Premier Laval has assured Great Britain that France will not block economic sanctions by the League of Nations against Italy.

The British government was said in authoritative circles to be asking for the application of sanctions at an early date.

Laval himself was interviewed by Sir George Russell Clerk, the British ambassador, for an hour.

London, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today that a stalemate had been reached in efforts to end the Italo-Ethiopian war and that there were no hopes for an early cessation of hostilities.

At the same time, the treasury department ordered that Great Britain's financial sanctions against Italy be placed in operation next Tuesday.

The official treasury explanation said financial sanctions were

TOWNSENDERS IN SNAPPY SESSION PLAN CAMPAIGNS

Invite Roosevelt to Listen In On Their Convention Tomorrow

Chicago, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Cheering, hymn-singing delegates to Dr. Francis E. Townsend's first national convention passed a resolution today inviting President Roosevelt to "listen in" on their final session tomorrow.

The Townsend club representatives, devoted to the California doctor's plan of retiring every man and woman over 60 on a $200-a-month pension, issued their invitation after shouting "amen" to a speaker who told them:

"If congress doesn't pass our revolving pension plan, we'll elect a revolving congress."

Edward Marget, San Francisco, "coordinator" of Townsend activities in northern California, after this threat of action in 1936, declared:

"The president has never uttered one word against our plan, but that alone will not satisfy our people."

Packed Ballroom

The delegates, packing a downtown Chicago ballroom and frequently interrupting their sessions to raise their 6,067 voices in a hymn or patriotic air, first voted to invite the president to attend Sunday's windup in person, but later compromised on proposing he tune in on the radio.

Marget proposed that Roosevelt should "invite Dr. Townsend into the White House, lock the door, and stay there until the doctor either convinces the President the plan is right, or the president proves it is wrong."

How to elect the "revolving congress" was the chief business as the Townsend followers opened the third day of their meeting.

The delegates were to act on their public policy committee's report shaping a drive "in every congressional district" before the election.

Former State Senator Frank A. Arbuckle of Santa Monica, Calif., chairman of the convention, said the group leaders would not attempt to put out an "approved list" of congressional candidates, but would order the followers to back congressmen of any party who would endorse the pension plan.

Legislation to End the Criminal Driving in State Demand

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Governor Horner today disclosed he had assembled data on "wholesale murders on highways" and from it was preparing a demand to the legislative next week to halt the growing destruction of human life by automobiles.

He said the only specific point he had decided on was a request that the assembly restore the law making a speed of more than 45 miles an hour prima facie evidence against a driver in the event of an accident. Horner added, however, that he hoped in his message to arouse the legislature to a point where they will take strong steps against careless and drunken driving.

Meanwhile, at the state house, highway department officials, officers under the secretary of state and Horner's assistants conferred on a proposed bill to amend the motor traffic code. In addition to the 45 mile prima facie evidence clause, it was understood the bill would restore the former law giving justices of the peace and minor courts jurisdiction over traffic law violators.

Watch Other States

The governor had before his sermons, newspaper editors and information on traffic laws of neighboring states. One of the most impressive additions to his data, he said, was a copy of a sermon preached this week in Chicago at the funeral of Sidney Smith, newspaper cartoonist who was killed in a highway accident last Sunday.

He was also much interested in action in Iowa and Missouri in reducing accidents by prohibiting automobiles to pass on curves or hills where approaching vehicles could not be seen, and in action taken in those states to guide drivers in obeying the law.

"Part of that could be done in Illinois right away," he said. He indicated that in addition to his message to the legislature he would confer with highway traffic officials on the possibility of installing markers to indicate to drivers ones where it was dangerous to pass other cars.

2500 Deaths This Year

Horner appealed to newspaper editors to aid him in his campaign to reduce traffic deaths which have passed the 2500 mark in the state already this year.

"While the legislature can enact the necessary laws and police officials can do all in their power to enforce the laws, we must have cooperation from the automobile drivers themselves," he said. "One of the ways we can get that is through wide publicity of the terrifying toll being taken by careless driving."

He reiterated his stand in favor of a drivers' license law in the state. Since that matter was specifically mentioned in the call for a special session it was believed almost certain that a bill providing for mandatory licenses would be introduced in the assembly.

"I am also hopeful that we can secure further legislation against drunken driving," Horner said, pointing out that the law against carrying an open bottle of liquor did not take care of the driver who becomes intoxicated before he begins driving his car.

New Taxes Possible

At the conference on the highway section of the legislative call, attention was also given to the possibility that there may be amendments offered to other motor vehicle laws.

There was considerable uncertainty as to whether the wording of the call made possible an effort for legislation affecting the commerce commission's jurisdiction over commercial trucking firms. Also the possibility that there might be an attempt to secure legislation increasing taxation on motor fuels was discussed.

Illinois oil dealers took notice of the latter possibility, too, at a meeting here. Plans were made by the group to have a lobby present at the special session to oppose an increase.

FOREST FIRE'S DAMAGE NEARS TEN MILLIONS

2000 Weary Fighters Continue Battle to Extinguish Flames

Los Angeles, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Two thousand weary fighters continued their desperate battle today to halt a forest fire raging inland toward the Malibu Lake resort on the crest of Malibu mountain.

Outbreak of smaller conflagrations in spotted areas of Los Angeles county added more worry to forestry forces as the damage of the major fire neared the $10,000,000 mark.

Concern was felt for the safety of four members of a county fire department pumping crew. The quartet, together with another crew, was rushed from the Malibu CCC camp to the endangered Saddle Rock Lodge near Malibu Lake. The second crew returned, reporting the four might have been trapped between Lobo and Sierra canyons.

Lying ahead of the Malibu mountain fire, in the lake resort community, were the $50,000 home of Sir Guy Standing, noted English film actor, several pretentious mountain lodges, and a number of cabins.

Unofficial estimates placed the total devastated area, ranging from the Ventura county line to the Malibu along the ocean front, and from three to eight miles inland, at 150,000 acres of brush and timber land.

A new fire racing up Truinfo canyon threatened the Ventura county settlement of Truinfo, and 40 workers were sent into the section.

Ten other minor fires were believed under control in Ventura county, one of the fires resulted in the arrest of three men who allegedly left a camp fire unattended.

Another fire near the head of Dume canyon spread toward the Old Barrett ranch, one of the pioneer cattle domains of southern California. Several score CCC youths were sent in to back-fire the property.

Otto Schmall of Amboy Fired Bullet Into His Heart Early this Morn

Despondency Over Ill Health Back of His Suicide

Despondent over ill health, Otto Schmall of Amboy, aged about 45, took his own life at about 6 o'clock this morning, his death being the third in Lee county in less than a fortnight from firearms. Mrs. Schmall discovered the body of her husband in the wood shed at their home on Blackstone street about 6:30 o'clock.

Schmall was employed as janitor at the Pool flat building in Amboy and for several months had been suffering from heart trouble. This morning he and his wife arose at about their usual time and partook of breakfast. Schmall complained of not feeling well and after breakfast his wife went to the apartment building to carry out her husband's duties, leaving him at home alone.

Wife Found Body.

She returned about 6:30 and discovered that he had left the house. She went to the wood shed, where she experienced some difficulty in opening the door and found his body lying on the floor. He had apparently taken a 22 caliber rifle from the house after his wife's departure and gone into the wood shed, first closing the door, then sitting down on the floor, he placed the butt of the rifle in a corner, the barrel against his left breast, and tripping the trigger with a stove poker, fired one cartridge, the bullet entering the heart, and causing his death. Mrs. Schmall summoned neighbors and the body was removed to the Vaughan mortuary where Coroner Frank M. Banker is conducting an inquest this afternoon.

Mr. Schmall had been a resident of Amboy for several years and was well known throughout that section. His wife and numerous relatives survive him. The funeral arrangements had not been completed at the noon hour.

STERN FOUND DEAD IN NEW-ARK BEDROOM

Penniless, Clothes in Rags, He Takes His Own Life

Newark, N. J., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Albert Stern, the youthful paid killer wanted by police for questioning in the ruthless outbreak of gang warfare which wiped out Dutch Schultz and most of his gang, was found dead in a cheap rooming house today.

Chief County Medical Examiner Harrison Hortland said he was a suicide.

Deputy Chief John Haller said detectives had information that Stern had been seen lurking near an automobile which was subsequently stolen and used by the gangster executioners who rubbed out Schultz and three henchmen in a downtown tavern Wednesday night.

Haller told a story of Stern which was a bewildering contrast to New York police's description of the 21-year-old youth as a ruthless paid killer, suspected of complicity in the cremation slaying of "Pretty Louis" Amberg, a Schultz henchman in Brooklyn Tuesday and in other crimes.

Had Begged Nickles.
The deputy chief said he had learned a man identified only as "Rosenthal" had found Stern begging nickles on Fifteenth avenue, Newark, last Sunday, and took him to the cheap boarding house where his body was found about 9 A. M. today.

Stern was in bed, his head protruding over the head board. A necktie, knotted tightly about his throat was tied to an open gas jet. The second floor room was filled with gas when the landlady, Mrs. Flora Blacher, found the body.

A note scrawled in pencil on cheap paper, was found near the body. It read:

"Darling:
"This is goodbye, life is not worth while without you. One who loves you more than life itself. Please take it as I would want you to. Remember the blacks,
"A."

Dr. Martland rendered his verdict of suicide after performing an autopsy.

Examine for Poison.
The vital organs were given to a pathologist to examine for possible traces of poison.

Mrs. Blacher said Stern had been brought to her house by a Louis Rosenthal and had not paid any rent. He did not seem to have any money, she said, recalling that she took pity on him and gave him meals several times. On Tuesday, the day before the tavern massacre, she felt so sorry for him, she said, she gave him 15 cents.

Stern was fully dressed when found, but his clothes were poor and shabby. Not only were the soles worn off his shoes, but even the soles of his socks were gone.

Rosenthal told police he found Stern begging on Fifteenth avenue Sunday. The youth's condition was pitiable, he said. He was nervous, hollow-eyed and twitchy. His clothing was in bad condition.

No Food or Shelter.
When Rosenthal spoke to the youth, he told police, Stern said he with without food and shelter. All he had in his pocket was a pair of eyeglasses without lenses.

Rosenthal took him to the boarding house and bought him some milk. He said he had not seen him since.

An ordinance providing for the issuance of $145,000 worth of bonds by the city of Dixon, representing the city's share of 55 per cent of the cost of constructing and improving the present intercepting sewer system and a primary sewage disposal plant, is on file in the office of City Clerk Blake C. PHONEY FOLK

By Joseph Fort Newton

"PHONEY" may not be a word in the dictionary, but it ought to be. We need it. It expresses a feeling which we sometimes have about people and things which no other word exactly tells.

Often we meet a man and have a funny feeling about him. He does not ring quite true. It is just a feeling, but we cannot shake it off. Nor can we put our finger on any fact to justify it.

Just the same, we cannot entirely trust him, cannot go all the way with him, much as we might like to. Something holds us back; it may not be anything odd—off color or out of gear—but it is there.

Of course, we may be all wrong about it. "Father" Taylor said that there was a screw loose in Emerson, somewhere; but he was never able to hear it rattle—no matter how long or closely he listened.

Emerson, he said, was "the sweetest sinner" he had ever known. It would be bad policy to send him to prison, he argued, because "the tide of immigration would set in that way." He was so charming.

To be sure, in the case of Emerson the sailor evangelist met a mind greater than he could grasp, finer than he could follow; and it gave him a funny feeling. He was just spoofing about it, anyway.

All the great minds of the world have seemed queer, if not phoney, at first, until we saw what they were driving at. But my point here has to do with a real sense of something not trustworthy.

A feeling of that kind about a man makes us ill at ease. Either he is too good to be real or not good enough—we cannot make up our minds. We suspect there is something phoney about him.

Again, such a feeling may be clean off the track. Just a quirk of mind not to be taken seriously. Yet it is a fact, however, we may wish it were otherwise, and as such it has to be reckoned with.

For the rest, if other folk give us the phoney feeling let us beware lest they find something phoney in us. To be real and deal with reality, asks for all our wit, wisdom, and genuine charity.

LOVELY AUTUMN WEDDING TODAY AT ST. PETER'S

Miss Ellagwen Shaw is Bride of Harold A. Green of St. Louis

A simple, yet beautiful wedding took place this morning at 9 o'clock at quaint old St. Peter's Episcopal church in Grand Detour, with Reverend Father B. Norman Burke, Rector of St. Luke's church in Dixon, officiating at the impressive Episcopal service, receiving the marriage vows of Miss Ellagwen Shaw, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin T. Shaw, of Dixon, and Harold A. Green, of St. Louis, Mo., son of Mrs. Raymond F. Lohse.

Clinton Fahrney played a short prelude of organ music including Canticle Nuptiale by Dubuok, 1 Love You Truly, Bond. Mrs. Wilson Dyrart, accompanied by Mr. Fahrney sang sweetly, O Perfect Love, by Barnby.

The wedding procession was the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin by Wagner. The recessional was the Wedding March from Midsommer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn.

Each pew in the center aisle of the church was decorated with a white taper and lily, the taper wreathed in laurel. On either side of the betrothal altar were tall white tapers and lilies, and tapers and lilies also graced the altar before which the wedding vows were exchanged, the entire service being solemnized in candle light.

Benjamin T. Shaw, father of the bride, gave his daughter in marriage. Albert Davis, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Miss Hortense Peetz, of St. Louis, a sorority sister of the bride, was the maid of honor.

The bride's gown of satin, floor length, was made with a semi-train. She wore a white satin halo hat with a bridal veil crown. Her flowers were Easter lilies.

Miss Peetz wore a charming plum colored velvet dinner gown, with hat, gloves and accessories matching. Her flowers were Talisman roses.

Following the ceremony at St. Peter's, a charming wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mrs. George B. Shaw in Bluff Park, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. H. U. Bardwell and Mrs. Robert E. Shaw. The guests at the breakfast were members of the bridal party and the immediate family. The decorations were simple yet most effective, in white, white chrysanthemums being the flowers.

Following the breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Green left for Oklahoma City, Okla., where they will make their home, the groom holding a position with the Oklahoma Publishing Co. The bride of today, a descendant of one of Dixon's oldest families, a great granddaughter of the late B. F. Shaw, attended the University of Illinois, Gulf Park College, and is a graduate of the University of Missouri. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority.

Mr. Green, a likeable and progressive young man, received his B. S. degree at the University of Missouri, and is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Magdalen Masten, and Dr. Mabel Masten, Madison, Wis.; Miss Clara Gwen Bardwell, Chicago.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Weatherwax, assisted by Miss Maybel Stanley and Mrs. Robert Kilson, who planned the happy affair.

Those who drove to Milledgeville to attend the party were Miss Ethlyn Schrock, Miss Maybel Stanley, Mrs. Edward Bollman, Mrs. Lyle Gleason, from Dixon; Mrs. Robert Kilson from Geneseo; Mrs. Lee Kauffman and Mrs. M. Grafa, from Rock Falls.

And So the Simpsons Live Happily

Los Angeles, Oct. 26—(AP)—Ann Harding, once accused by her divorced husband of being an "unfit person" to care for their seven-year-old daughter, Jane, was in sole custody of the child today.

The long and bitter legal battle between the blonde film actress and her former husband, Harry Bannister, has ended with an unexpected agreement giving only a few minor concessions to the father.

The agreement between counsel for the two came after a hearing on Bannister's petition to obtain custody of the child. His action had contested an order of the Nevada court which divorced them in 1932, granting Miss Bannister sole custody.

In the California decision, Bannister, actor-manager-producer and lately a "gentleman farmer" on 76 acres near Stewartville, N. J., is permitted the right of "reasonable visitation" at Miss Harding's Hollywood home to see his daughter.

He is also permitted to take her from the home two week-ends every three months, Saturday morning to 8 P. M. Sunday, on three days advance notice to Miss Harding.

Mrs. A. F. Wagner, of Freeport, mother of Mrs. D. S. Grow of this city, is very ill, no hopes being extended for her recovery. Mrs. Grow went to Freeport this week to be with her mother. Not long ago Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were honored with a party at the Grow home in honor of their golden wedding.

They Say Holiday Turkeys Cost More

Chicago, Oct. 26—(AP)—Young holiday turkeys this year apparently are going to cost more than last year, a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture indicated.

Heavy reductions in the number of turkeys in flocks and in the number of turkey raisers were reported to the bureau of agricultural economics at Austin, Tex., which estimated the total crop for 1935 would be 13 per cent lower than last year.

The important producing states of Texas and North Dakota reported flocks smaller this year by at least one-third. The decrease for the last north central states was set at nine per cent, for the west north central at 14 per cent and the far west at five per cent. The Atlantic states were reported virtually unchanged.

While the figures pointed to material reduction in the number of birds, the report said the turkeys "being marketed are considerably heavier than those of last year when the drought compelled the marketing of many birds at earlier ages and lighter weights."

Willful Child Must Learn Self Control

By Olive Roberts Barton.

When Billy was four years old and something was denied him he had an odd habit of saying, "But I have to have it," or "I have to do it."

Unconsciously, he was putting into words the demand of the human heart to have its way.

He did not change in the least as he grew older except that these tearing urges were kept to himself. He did not say that he "had" to have something or just "must" go somewhere, but he managed to have his way.

He was called headstrong and willful, unmanageable and bull-headed. No one gave him credit for knowing what he wanted when he wanted it or knowing his own mind definitely. But Billy had an asset, in spite of incorrigibility, that goes into the making of all strong characters.

Few Know Own Minds.

Half of the people in the world drift. They take the line of least resistance, the pleasant path already made for them. To find one strong enough to know precisely what it is that he desires of life, enough to use his wits and strength to go after it, there is the material of the leader.

Now this description suits the ruthless outlaw, as well as the business executive or the pioneer professional in any line, so the difference must be explained to Billy and his kind when they are old enough to reason at all. Into the strong character with its compelling desires and "musts," a creed like the following should be thoroughly instilled:

"Billy (or Charles, or James), we know what it means to you to have your own way. It means so much that nothing we can say or do will stop you. We know far better than you think we do that when you want to go to a movie instead of studying your lessons, the desire will eat you up and make you unfit for anything else. It makes you cross and surly and spoils your thinking about anything but the thing you want."

Character is Real Law-maker. "But son, will you try to remember this? If you want to be considered a strong boy instead of a weak one, if you want to have 'character' as all fine men of history have had, you will have to find something in yourself that can stand a set-back and disappointment. You will have to learn to fight yourself, to be able to stand in the middle of the floor and clench your hands and say, 'I can get along without it. I must get along without it. I cannot go even though I feel as though I would die if I didn't go.'"

"No one else can make your character for you. There are a few rules you have learned to live by, but they won't cover all the times. That mighty desire of yours will always be in the road. Character never was made by a lot of laws, because they are easily broken. You won't have any character at all until you learn to lick yourself and hold in when it is right to hold in."

Self-developed character is worth a whole edition of Gladstone. Self-control, not "Gang way" (in its double sense) makes the men.

Mrs. G.P. Powell Hostess to Missionary Society of M. E. Church

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the M. E. church held their October meeting on Thursday with Mrs. G. P. Powell, 309 E. Third with a very good attendance.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. E. Whitson and the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was sung with Mrs. Jacobson at the piano. Mrs. S. S. Dodge had charge of the devotional period bringing out many beautiful thoughts on the "Stewardship of Citizens."

The usual business was transacted after which Miss Seals explained what the dues from our honorary members are used for and also presented a plea from the Queen Esther organization for contributions to their $100,000 building fund.

Communications were read from the citizenship chairman asking for volunteers to the reading course. A letter had also been sent to our supply secretary asking for donations of certain articles for our institutions at Farmington, N. Mexico and at Peek Home, Polo. Action on this was deferred until next meeting.

It was announced that on Friday, Nov. 1, there would be a joint meeting of all the Missionary Societies of the church. A scramble supper will be served at 6:30 after which Dr. Gunning of Princeton, a state senator of Illinois, will give an address, his subject being, "After the Fire, a Still, Small Voice." Dr. Gunning is an outstanding speaker and well worth hearing.

Mrs. W. J. Hintz, as program chairman of the afternoon then introduced Cal Tyler who gave the Society a most interesting and enlightening address on "Citizenship." He stressed our duties and privileges as citizens of the U. S. as compared with some of the foreign countries. He also gave us a keen insight into the workings and problems of his office as commissioner of Public Health and Safety and urged us to scrutinize the acts of our officials we have elected.

He then gave us some appalling statistics on the number of persons killed or totally disabled as a result of automobile accidents and urged us as individuals and as an organization to co-operate in enforcing the traffic laws of the land. He spoke of the liquor and gambling ordinances of the city of Dixon and compared the present day beer tavern with the old time saloon.

Mrs. Tyler is a forceful speaker and impressed his audience as one who would fight to the last ditch for what he thought was right. All expressed their appreciation for his address.

The annual Thank Offering meeting will be Sunday, Nov. 17, the speaker being Mrs. Stecker. The next regular meeting of the Society will be with Mrs. Fred E. Ball, 1005 Highland Ave.

Tragedy Contact Hard on Child

By Olive Roberts Barton.

Lida's grandmother died yesterday. She died in another city and the child's parents could not decide last night whether to take their six-year-old daughter on with them or not. Lida so adored the sweet old lady so full of fun and little stories and treats and was now going about big-eyed and bewildered at the news about her dearly beloved Marv, as she called her, going away on a long, long journey and not coming back—ever.

"I think mother would want to know she is there," whispered Lida's mother.

"She won't understand what it is all about, so why take her?" said her father.

"Maybe when she grows up she will wonder why she did not see her," said mother.

"She will forget so why make her cry and brood for the next week or month? You are trying to be a stoic yourself now for her sake, so why add to your own misery and hers by more heart-break?" said her father.

Conflicting Viewpoints.

So Lida was left at home with a cousin who plans to fill her next few days with as many diversions as possible. The child goes to school as usual.

The neighbors are divided in their opinions about it.

A teacher says: "I think it is time that children were being taught that death is a natural phenomenon to be accepted without too much hysterical emotion. No child should be allowed to dramatize the death of a pet, or a bird or animal killed on the road. From birth we keep the secret of death away from children, or rather, make a secret of it—thus never preparing them for a personal loss."

A grandmother sighs, "I am selfish enough to want my family about me when I go—all of them. I might be conscious and would grieve to know that all the children had been kept away. In the old days the children and babies went to funerals and it never hurt them. Anyway, haven't the dead still some rights? Is it too much to ask a child might cry a little for a day or two? Anyway, I think that it never hurts to balance joy and sorrow in children."

Child's Nature Is Sure Guide. Two arguments in favor of letting the child go through with it, but from different points of view, of course.

Personally, I believe it depends on the age and the

THE NEW DEAL UNMASKED
General Johnson tears the gilded mask from the New Deal and shows it to the public as the horrible thing it is. To any one who is interested in seeing the New Deal as he sees it, we suggest reading of his article in the current Saturday Evening Post under the title, "Think Fast, Captain!"

Not enough space is afforded here to reproduce his pointed paragraphs and to make our comment, so we give the extracts now, comment to come later.

General Johnson says:
"The blueprint of the New Deal was good. The hopeless tangle of today is not a maze of paths then platted. It is a snarl of tangents and departures. Confusion of counsel, incompetence of administrators, terrible 'timing,' no coordination, bad staff work, and divided and contradictory purpose—yes these are fair criticisms. But the basic plan proposed in the last campaign was right and necessary in 1932. It is equally right and even more necessary today."

"A temporary sequestration of gold was an emergency necessity, but the monkey business with money was a tragic error."

"In the first place, it was a failure. It did not work, as planned, to restore prices to the 1926 level. That failure was important but not fatal. The fatal thing was that a pledge had been dishonored; that the priceless ingredient of the whole New Deal formula—INTEGRITY, which makes CONFIDENCE—had been adulterated."

"With the abandonment of sound money went also its fiscal basis—economy, balanced budgets, and reduced spending and taxation."

"From that moment forward, free investment, forward business planning, vigorous commercial audacity—all the necessary elements of natural recovery were under the shadow of a Great Fear. It is the effective single cause of continued depression."

"The original New Deal plan for agriculture looked to a subsidization of the export of surplus agricultural products in manufactured form, and a diminution of excessive surplus by retirement of marginal agricultural areas through rental and purchase. It openly and scathingly condemned the plowing under of corn and cotton and the slaughter of excess herds." (Mr. Roosevelt did so personally).

"On the contrary, it leaves the basic condition worse than ever. It has enhanced farm prices by a tax on particular products probably to be declared unconstitutional, and it has no alternative plan to salvage the ruin of that wreck."

"The result is a new and rapidly approaching farm collapse and no improvement in the underlying condition. . . . The farm problem can be solved on the original formula. It must be solved. The farmer has been educated and had his taste of blood. No party platform which omits to continue his recent gains or to delude him with some platitude, can possibly prevail."

"The ill-considered press conference dissertation on the constitution and the letter on the Guffey bill did far more harm. At one stroke, they gave his enemies a principal issue and enough ammunition for a whole campaign."

"Now, where do all these blunders come from? Franklin Roosevelt is able, sincere and courageous. The New Deal plan proposed in his campaign was a carefully studied, deliberate, considered and conservative program. What came in to change it, and when and how, and why? Whatever it was, it came early in the game, and it came with an apparent choice to make this a 'liberal' rather than a democratic administration, and to rely on the personal prestige of the president rather than a well-organized government of strong and able men."

"The diversions all originated from without. Even during the planning of the New Deal, there began to appear—faintly and little considered at first—pressures, and vetoes in advice, from a group then some times called 'the Harvard crowd,' but later, on account of its leader, Prof. Felix Frankfurter, irreverently yclept the Happy Hot Dogs."

"Shortly after election there began to occur one of the cleverest infiltrations in the history of our government. There was no noise about it. The professor himself has refused every official connection. His comings and goings are almost surreptitious. Yet he is the most influential single individual in the United States. His boys have been insinuated into obscure but key positions in every vital department."

"To them the constitution is just a foil for clever fencing—an antediluvian joke to be respected in public like a Sacred Cow and regarded in private somewhat as Gertrude Stein probably regards the poet Tennyson or any other Victorian."

"Their idea is that government is the nucleus of a vast collectivism in which business or any private enterprises are just elements to be absorbed."

"Their thought here was that the supreme court and the constitution could be put on the spot as a scapegoat in the public eye, and government could thus move by a short cut to collectivism. They recognize that as a blunder now, but they were very positive then."

"Now this is NOT government on the American plan. These pundits represent nobody and nothing but their own 'advanced' ideas."

"These 'liberal' highbrows don't mean a thing. The president's off-party strength lay in labor, agriculture, the army of the unemployed, and among small business men. There is now a question mark on the support of each of these great groups. If, as seems likely, AAA is knocked out and nothing replaces it, great masses of farmers in rock-ribbed republican states will return to the faith of their fathers. There is a potential crack in the American Federation of Labor that threatens to split it from top to bottom. The twenty-one million people on relief are no potential legion in reserve. Many of them are bitter and resentful."

"The Hot Dog Pressure Group, which diverted the New Deal, weakened party organization, and conceived the Horse and Buggy comment after the Schechter case, is almost wholly responsible for this whole condition."

James Allicks, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Allicks, cannot attend public school as he is unable to walk, but he has school every day at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Merrow. For two years James has had to stay at home and try to recover from a bone infection. Recently the casts were removed from his legs and James was given a pair of crutches, with the help of which he can stand for a short time each day.

Last year Mrs. Lyman Rambo was hired as a tutor for James and he made excellent progress in his school work under her teaching. The salary paid jointly by the state and the Rockford school district, where James should attend school, this year funds from these sources were not available, and Mrs. Rambo without any compensation, goes to the Merrow home and supervises James' education for an hour each school day. His grandmother, Mrs. Merrow, assists Mrs. Rambo by helping James to prepare his lessons. He is in the last half of the fourth grade and is deeply interested in his work. On December 20, James will return to the Illinois Research and Educational hospital in Chicago for observation. His recovery has been slow but James is patient and hopes to soon be fully recovered.

Extensive improvements are being made this week at Edwards Brothers garage on the corner of North Jones avenue and Division street where a new show room is being arranged in the south room of the building. Previously the entire south room had been devoted to parts storage bins.

The wooden storage bins have been moved to the rear, providing a roomy space along the large east window. The room is being redecorated and fitted up for the display of the new 1936 car models which are arriving. Formerly all cars had been displayed in the north room.

"This is the end of our fine trip," said Scouty. "Look at that big rip the lightning put in our balloon. We're falling downward, now."

"Our only chance, now, is to land in some big stream. That would be grand. Of course, we'd get a ducking, but we'd swim ashore, somehow."

The others were so scared that they just didn't have a thing to say. The kind balloon man eyed them, and then shouted, "We're all right. I am responsible for you. I'll save you all, before I'm through. I'm going to jump right out, but you hang on with all your might."

They shortly saw him leap away. Then, Copsy weakly shouted, "Hey! You'll crash right down to earth. There is no sense in doing that."

The man yelled back, "Don't fret 'bout me. I'm clinging to a rope. You see. So far, my plan is working fine, except I've lost my hat."

And then there came a big surprise when, right before the Tinies' eyes, a parachute popped open and began to fill with air.

The Tinies pulled the old man in and then he told them, with a grin, "You see, I was prepared. I'm sorry that you had a scare."

"The parachute will hold us all. There really is no chance to fail. The only thing that I regret, is that my hat is gone."

"It's so dark, now, I cannot see, but right below us it must be. I think I'll land and get it, with the breaking of the dawn."

Then Goldy cried, "Why, just look there! A bird is coming through the air, and in its mouth it has your hat. This is your lucky day."

The bird flew by and dropped the hat right in the basket. Think of that! "Oh, thank you," cried the man, as the kind bird flew on its way.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell MacKinnon of Evanston came Friday for a visit with relatives and friends. The Safety Lane equipment that was in Amboy last Saturday, sponsored by the Skilled Drivers' club of the Illinois Agricultural Mutual Insurance Company, showed very startling facts. Very few cars passed the tests given.

The cars were checked for horn, tail light, stop light, windshield wiper and rear view mirror. The headlights were tested as to the way they were focused and the brakes were tested for their braking power.

Getting a late start Saturday morning and stopping at 5:30 o'clock Saturday it was found that 75 cars had gone through the lane. Of these 75 cars, 56 were rejected and 19 approved. Out of the 75 that were tested 24 had no stop light, 4 had no tail light, 2 had no horn, 7 no windshield wiper and 2 had one headlight. Faulty breaking equipment caused rejection of 24 cars. It is felt that by having this test that a considerable number of accidents were prevented by having these cars tested and then repaired. Club officials feel that possibly a few lives may have been saved and many persons spared injuries because the tests were made and the defects corrected. Because of the inclement weather Monday it was impossible to operate the equipment.

This safety lane is praised and approved by all organizations and persons interested in the welfare of mankind. It is hoped that this equipment can be brought back into the county and that the people can again be given an opportunity to have their cars checked. If there are enough motorists interested, the safety lane will be returned for another test.

Workmen are ready to pour cement for the floor of the new Rockford bridge. The hub guard and hand rail will be poured soon as rapid progress is being made on the super-structure. At the present time it appears that the bridge will not be placed in use until some time after November 1.

Cook County Owes State $15,687.58

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—The department of finance reported today the unpaid property tax for the four years ending 1932 when the tax method was abandoned, had been reduced to $17,797.624.

Of this sum the department said it expected to collect approximately $6,228.961.

Most of the amount still due on delinquent taxes for the years 1929, to 1932 inclusive, was reported to be from Cook county where property owners owe the state $15,687,586. The bill against other counties totalled $2,110,038, for the last two years the tax was in effect.

The total unpaid amount for the state was against levies for the four years of $149,478,420.

WALKER REGAINS HEALTH ENOUGH TO RETURN HOME

"Clear Coast" Has No Influence in Former Mayor's Plans

Southampton, Eng., Oct. 26.—(AP)—A slender, energetic, little man moved slowly up a crowded gangplank of the liner Manhattan early Friday as the ship lay wrapped in a deep fog.

No band played "Will You Love Me in December as You Did in May?" There were no cheers. No one cried, "So long, Jimmy!"

He was just another passenger, James J. Walker leaving England on his way back to his native New York.

Once a symbol of New York to New York's millions, Walker was going home after three years of what he called a "hideout for health" from the strain of American political life.

For an hour before the boat sailed, he stood up in his old-time, urbane manner and with forensic poise answered the questions of London newspaper men who wanted to know why he went abroad in 1932, at a time when the cables were humming with reports of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's censure of his mayoral regime.

"Well Enough" to Return
He explained he was not going back now because "the coast is clear"—because Federal authorities had announced they were dropping all investigations of his income tax—but because his health had improved enough in three years abroad to permit it.

"Personally, I am through definitely with politics," he said. "I'll never run for office again."

With him as he sailed was his actress-wife, Betty Compton, whom he married after his retreat from the hubbub of a New York existence and divorce from his first wife.

The former Broadway star backed up Walker's assertion that she had no intention of resuming her career, that "marriage is a 24-hour job and she's through with the stage." The Manhattan is due in New York October 31.

Air-Conditioned Auto Perfected

New Orleans, Oct. 26.—(AP)—The first air-conditioned auto and plans for air-conditioning buses to compete with cooled railroad coaches were announced today at a meeting of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators.

A five-passenger car has been hunting the hot spots and the dirty ones all summer between Buffalo, Chicago and New York. Its air was cooled on the hottest highways. There was never any dust inside. Its passengers were free even of the hay fever pollens.

It is convertible in winter, to carry its own custom made, warm climate; free of dirt, comparatively pure of the respiratory infections.

Hunting Rules Stand U. S. Court Decided

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—(AP)—Federal District Judge J. Earl Major Friday dismissed an injunction suit brought in an effort to block enforcement of the new regulations governing the shooting of ducks and other waterfowl.

He ruled that the Federal court did not have jurisdiction in the case brought by a group of Illinois sportsmen and hunting clubs.

In upholding a government motion to dismiss the case, Judge Major did not rule on the merits of the attack made upon the drastic regulations promulgated by J. N. Darling, director of the Federal biological survey, in an effort to conserve the waterfowl supply.

FORMER BEER BARON AND AIDES VICTIMS OF GANGLAND'S GUNS

ACTUAL BATTLE ZONE PICTURES FROM THE OGADEN FRONT

Copyright, 1935, by Acme Newspictures, Inc.

AS SCHULTZ FOUGHT FOR LIFE AFTER SAVAGE OUTBURST OF GANG WAR—
Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Elegenheimer pictured lying in the Newark, N. J., City Hospital with a gaping wound in his side shortly after he and his three bodyguards were mown down by gangland assassins in Newark chop house. Pictured at left is table at which they were sitting when assassins burst in and turned the peaceful dining room into a shambles. A policeman points to holes made in mirror by bullets that went wild. Two other Schultz henchmen were shot down in New York barber shop the same evening.

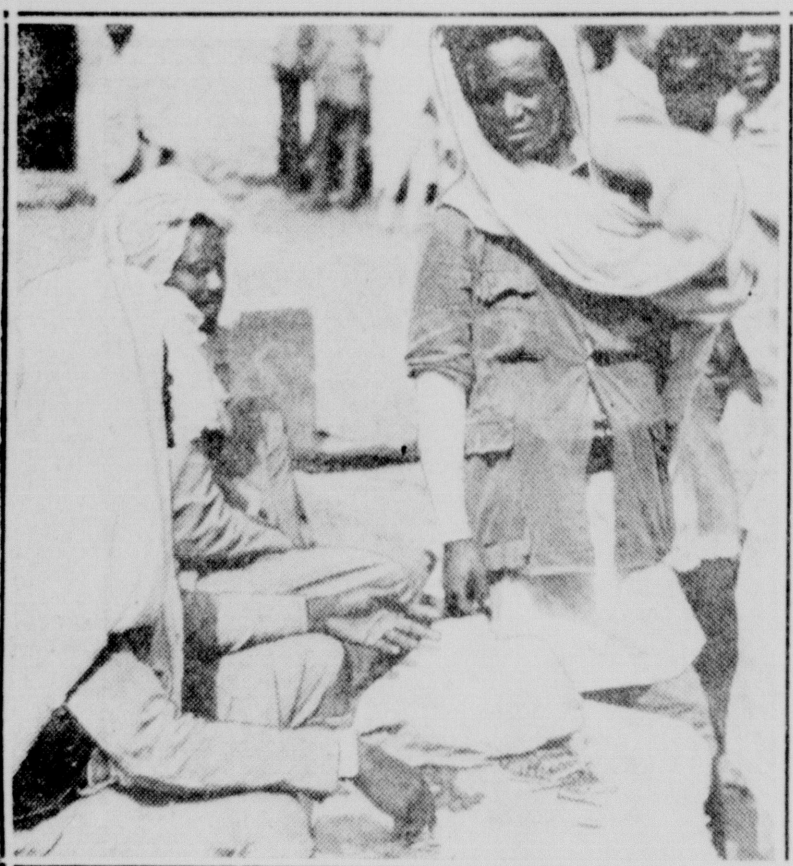

GRIZZLED DESERT CHIEFTAINS JOIN FORCES TO BATTLE COMMON FOE—
Their ancient tribal garments offering a sharp contrast to bandoliers of ammunition and modern rifles, these three chiefs of desert tribes ride into Ras Nassibu's camp to join his forces. These pictures were taken under actual war conditions in the Ogaden.

MOVE INTO POSITION FOR BATTLE NEAR HARAR—
Trucks mounting machine guns and loaded with well-armed Ethiopian infantrymen lined up at Ras Nassibu's camp 30 miles south of Harar where 300,000 Ethiopians face Italian army of 140,000.

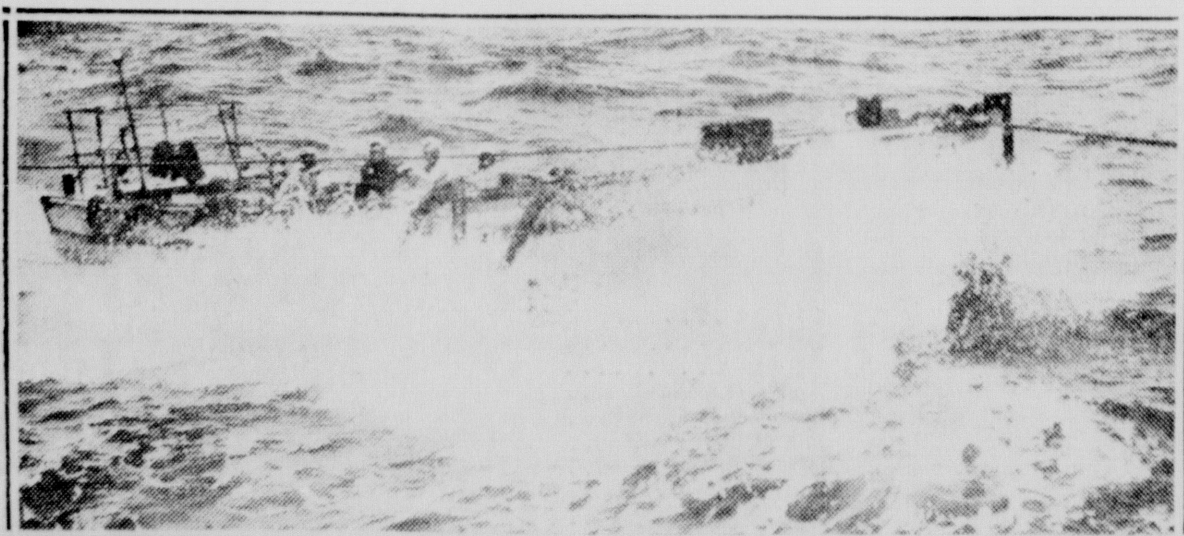

RUSHING FORWARD TO MEET ADVANCING ENEMY—
Deployed in open formation to lessen chances of casualties from Italian bombs, Ethiopian regulars run across open field in their advance to strengthen the front lines near Harar.

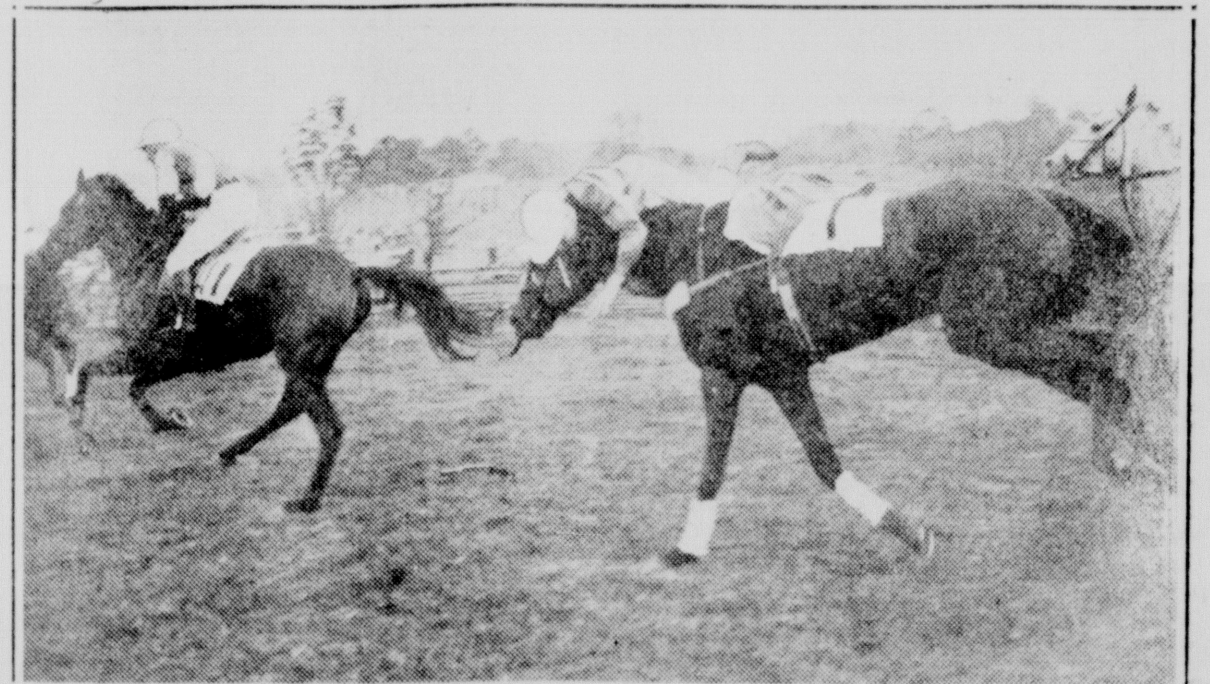

THE DRUMS OF WAR BEAT AND—TRADE IN SUDDEN DEATH IS BRISK—
Mohammedan troops beat their war drums in Ras Nassibu's camp on the front line near Harar. The unceasing boom raises the fighting spirit of the warriors to a frenzied pitch. At Harar (picture left) a street peddler does a rushing business selling rifle cartridges to wild tribesmen from Ethiopia's interior.

DEATH CREEPS THROUGH THE FIELDS OF CORN—
Hidden from airplane observers by tall stalks of corn, warriors of Ras Nassibu's army crawl forward to harass the advancing Italians on the Southeastern front.

JOIN THE NAVY AND SEE THE WORLD? IT'S ALL WET, YOUNG FELLER—
Target repair party from the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic Fleet, drenched from working all day in the rolling China Sea, gets another ducking as waves break over gunwale while they wait to be hoisted aboard their ship.

"HO HUM, SUCH A FUSS"—
Beatrice, or maybe it is Barbara, yawns at this posing business as she and her twin sister arrive in Hollywood from East and are greeted by their proud father, Edward Burns, former tennis star turned film actor.

GETTING AHEAD OF HIS HORSE—
Gentleman Jockey Morgan Macy finds that a horse's neck isn't anything to laugh about as he comes a cropper during Froh-Heim steeplechase at Essex Fox Hounds Race Meet, Far Hills, N. J. Pimochio's stumble proved that.

TODAY in SPORTS

ARGUMENT IS CONTINUING ON OLYMPICS

Sherrill Called Cowardly for Remarks

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—American participation in the Olympic games continued today to be the crux of acrid debate.

Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the American Amateur Athletic Union who recently declared Dr. Theodore Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, was being used as a "screen" by the German government, attacked last night the principles of Nazism in general and General Charles Sherrill in particular.

"I am talking as an individual and not as president of the A. A. U.," he said in a radio talk, "but my heart is in the cause because I know it has the better of the moral issue involved. It is not a question of race or religion any more, or a question of athletics."

"It is a question of whether we shall lend help and endorsement and approval to the Nazi government that knows not the rules of sport or fair play, but which in sport as well as in all other activities and functions of life, resorts to force and oppression and persecution to accomplish its wicked ends."

Braached Possibility
General Sherrill, who recently returned from Germany, braached the possibility of anti-semitic trouble here as a result of the opposition to American participation.

He contended that if the 500,000 Americans in training for possible places on Olympic teams suddenly became aware of efforts to thwart their desires, they might instigate anti-semitic trouble that would last for years.

Referring to this, Mahoney said: "No real friend of the Jews of this country would attempt to silence any self-respecting Jew by proclaiming that an American protest against conditions in Germany might create an anti-semitic movement here."

"Such a statement is cowardly and is made merely to intimidate the courageous, fearless, liberty-loving Jews living in our midst, and they will not believe for a moment that anybody who can make such a threat in such an insinuating and insidious manner could be really and honestly a friend of the Jews."

In Berlin, Dr. Lewald announced that Helene Mayer, outstanding German-Jewish fencer, had accepted an invitation to compete for Germany. The case of Miss Mayer had been cited often in the controversy and Lewald regarded her acceptance as disposing of at least one point in the situation. Many had contended that Miss Mayer never had received an invitation.

FLACK LEADS IN HIGHWAY POLICE MARKSMEN TESTS

Rex Flack of Amboy, member of the state highway police, led all other state patrolmen in the northwest section of Illinois yesterday in the annual pistol shoot conducted at Rock Island and scored 86.9 for his efforts on the state range. The shoot was conducted and supervised by a United States Army captain and under the Army regulations. About 48 state patrolmen from the Sterling and Rock Island districts were present and all are required to participate.

Patrolman Flack topped the list with his score of 86.9 and by his marksmanship will represent the northwest section of the state at the Illinois shoot to be held at Springfield Monday, Nov. 11. If successful at the state shoot, he will be selected as a member of the Illinois team to represent this state in competition at the national shoot to be held at a range in West Virginia next spring.

In the competition yesterday, only pistols were used, each patrolman being required to fire 55 rounds of ammunition. A team consisting of five men will be selected from the Sterling district within a few days to compete at the state shoot in Springfield in two weeks.

Challengers in Fighting Mood For Hallowe'en

Halloween boxing entrants continued to flock in today. Said Jack Hipple, 17, as he cast his hat into the ring of challengers:

"I'd like to fight that Jack Hess. I'm inexperienced and so is he. When will the pairings be made?" Hipple weighs 150 pounds.

His pal, Ted Eller, 16, chimed in. "Give me that Spencer kid. I'd like to mix gloves with that guy all right."

And there's no doubt that Ted will use his 117 pounds to every advantage even though he's inexperienced in the racket.

NEWS! DEKALB HASN'T ENOUGH GIRL TROUBLE!

Coach Trees Says Result is Lack of Inspiration

Coach James Trees is having trouble these days, the kind that coaches seldom have to worry about. The trouble—girls, and not enough of them.

The team is listless, lacking drive and pep. The players themselves admit they lack something or other, and the practice sessions are about as lively as an ordinary scene in a public library.

Brother Keenan, compatriot on the Belvidere Daily Republican, asked Trees what seemed to be his difficulty in getting the DeKalb boys in shape for Belvidere today. Trees seemed unmoved by the listless manner in which his boys were practicing. No abuse fell like the bolts of Jove from the blue upon their battered heads.

All Nice Boys
"They're all nice boys," said Trees gloomily. "I think that might be the main trouble. There isn't a lad on that team whom any strict parent could find an objection to his daughter going out with, and I am being forced to think that are so nice they just can't get in there and pitch when they have to. I've had worse teams during the years I've coached but at least they were teams that tried to play football on the field."

"Some of the boys came around to me on Sunday and Monday and asked if I was really disappointed with them. I told them the truth and one fellow even asked that I give him a first class bawling out in front of the entire squad, saying he thought that might snap him out of the doldrums. They told me they knew they played lousy football but didn't seem to have any other kind in their systems."

Useless Drills
"How about going back to the old system of drilling on fundamentals?" the coach was asked. "I've tried that," was the doleful reply. "Last week I had the managers keep track of the hours we spent on fundamentals. It was better than three hours a week on nothing but blocking and tackling, 40 minutes of scrimmage and an hour of signal drill."

And the game with Belvidere came today.

PURPLE FACES GAME WITHOUT STAR LINEMEN

Schumm, Marshall Taking Naval Examination

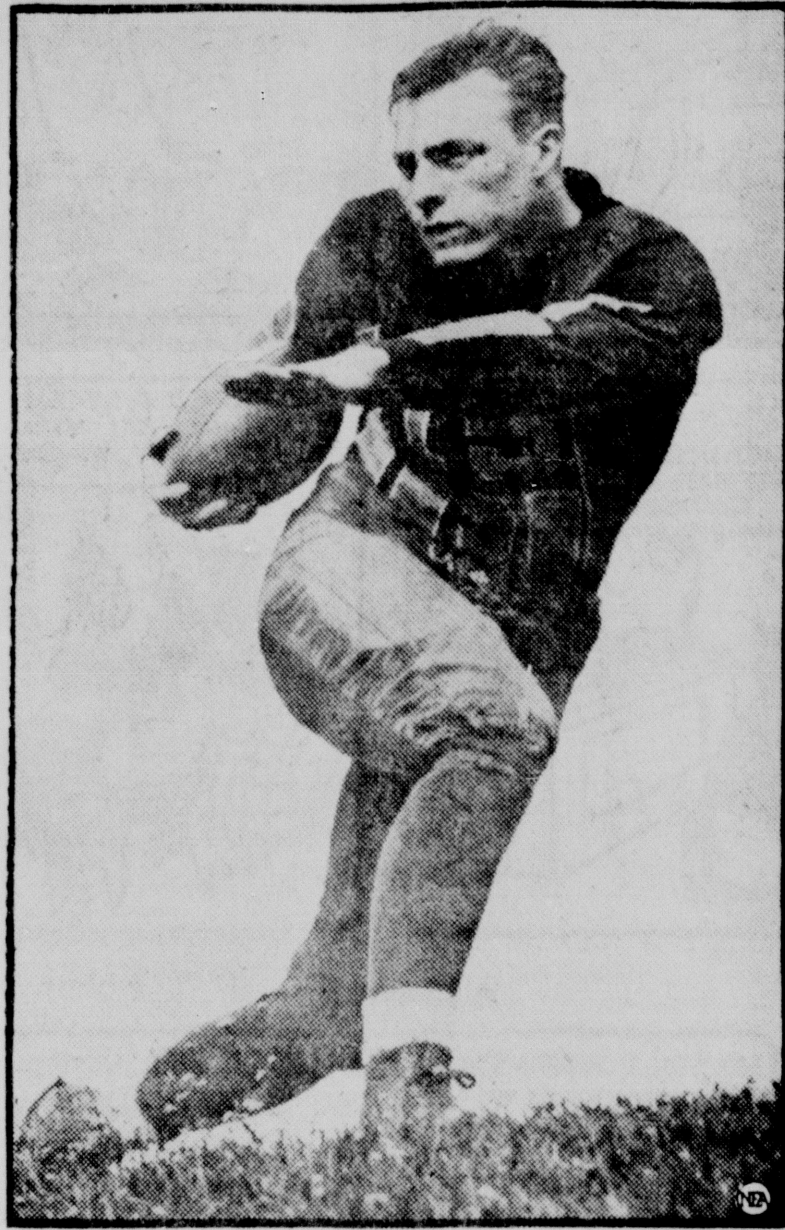

Dixon high faced its grid game with Rochelle this afternoon minus two of its star linemen, Louis Schumm, center and Leslie Marshall, guard.

The pair were busily engrossed in a six hour government examination at the Dixon post office for entry to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, which school both aspire to attend. Efforts of Principal B. J. Frazer, Athletic Director Arthur C. Bowlers and Coach C. B. Lindell to persuade government authorities to postpone the examination a few days proved fruitless. The tests, which were taken by 24 applicants from this district, began at 9 A. M.

Oakford Groomed.
At signal practice Friday afternoon Oakford was groomed to fill the gap created by Schumm's vacancy, and Christos was rushed in to the breach opened by Marshall's absence. The team spent the two hour session drilling on pass defense against Rochelle's tricky aerials centering around big Jerry Harms as the triple threat back.

Needed Back Is Back Indeed!

When Les Lindberg, Illinois triple threat, suffered a broken bone in his foot in the season's inaugural against Ohio University, Lowell Spurcon, above, was inserted. In the Illinois following games with Washington University and Southern California, the performances of this 154-pound ball carrier surprised everyone, including himself. He will play alongside Lindberg, who is back in the lineup.

JANESVILLE TO MEET REDMEN MINUS BOVEY

"Hick" Resting Up for Matrimony Adventure

The Dixon Redmen engage in their second football game at the Dixon high school field against Janesville, Wis., starting promptly at 2:30 P. M. Sunday.

The Independents will enter their second game without the services of "Hick" Bovey who will be entering a new kind of game November 3, that of matrimony. "Hick" is resting up for a wedding getting ready for the ordeal. It is believed this new ailment will keep him out of competition the remainder of the season.

Janesville is bringing a strong eleven here. The Wisconsin team recently tied the Rockford Southside Coals 2 to 2. They will be trying for their second win against Dixon. The Redmen, thoroughly mauled the Rockford All-Stars here last Sunday.

The probable line-up with the exception of Bovey will find Winebrenner at right tackle, Brooks at the right guard post, Holland in his customary center role, Knapp at left guard, McDonald left tackle, and Bellows holding down left end to complete the line. In the backfield, "Bull" Wolford will again charge the opposition from the fullback post. He was the individual star of the game Sunday. Whitebread will be quarterback, Miller will be left halfback and McIntyre, right half.

MASS MURDER IN SEATTLE IN '34 THOUGHT SOLVED

Beer Parlor Hostess in Confession Named Her Accomplice

Seattle, Oct. 26—(AP)—Defiant and close-lipped, Leo Hall, 33, resisted questioning concerning a mass murder mystery today after authorities said he had been implicated in the crime by the confession of a woman.

Sheriff William B. Svereny said Mrs. Larry Poulos, 28-year-old beer parlor waitress, had signed a confession accusing the former boxer and dry dock worker of slaying six persons at a gay house party on Erland's Point in March, 1934.

The alleged confession said Mrs. Poulos and Hall, masked and wearing gloves, entered the Frank Flider home in quest of "easy money," and after the six people in the house were robbed the victims were killed so "they couldn't talk."

Through the night of questioning Hall maintained his stoical attitude.

Claim Corroboration
"Hall seems to have a lot on his mind," said Detective Captain Ernest Yoris of the Seattle homicide squad. "We have a lot of corroborative evidence for Mrs. Poulos' statement."

Earlier in the evening, O. K. Bodla, chief criminal deputy sheriff, had declared:

"We have the man, beyond a doubt, and we don't care if he never confesses."

Hall was arrested Wednesday at Portland, Ore., on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

The victims in the Erland's point tragedy, some beaten, some shot, and one stabbed, were Mr. and Mrs. Flider, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chenevert, Magnus Jordan and Ezra M. (Fred) Bolcom. The statement put the robbery-slayings on the night of March 28, 1934.

When her husband's love is waning, a Moroccan woman buys some honey, pours it on her forehead and lets it run down her face. She catches the drops from her skin with a spoon, pricks her tongue with a fig-leaf, mixes the blood with seven grains of salt and the honey, takes dirt from her footprint and puts the concoction into the food of her wayward husband.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her answer when Bobby Wallace, automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him.

At The Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARRISON, whose business connection is vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to Mr. and Mrs. LEWIS and Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. He sells them to Jean's mother.

LARRY GLENN, federal agent, long a friend of Jean's parents, is trying to locate WINGY LEWIS, bank robber. Larry locates some stolen bonds and questions SANDY HARRISON, gambler, about them. Bobby confesses he bought the bonds from Donal Montague. Montague tells Larry he bought them from Bobby.

Larry talks to Bobby. Jean Lewis bought a car recently and suspects it is armored. Federal agents go to Lewis' hotel, but he and his wife have disappeared.

As a joke, Larry takes Jean's car and goes to the city. Bobby over Sandy. Jean sets out for a vacation visit to her home town a few days before she had told police Sandy was with her at the time of a robbery. Jean suddenly realizes this was not true.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

JEAN DUNN returned to her parents' home in the little town of Maplehurst in a sadly confused state of mind.

The sudden realization which had come to her on the train—the discovery that she had made a discovery when she told the police that Sandy had been with her on the afternoon of the robbery—disturbed her deeply. It meant, of course, that what she had supposed to be clear proof of Sandy's absolute innocence had fallen completely flat; it meant, furthermore, that he himself had knowingly persuaded her to testify to something that was not true.

It was Sandy, she remembered, who had led her to believe that that canoe trip of theirs had taken place on Friday, not on Thursday. What had he said? Something to the effect that he was sure of the date because Eve Lewis had had a birthday party that night. Jean remembered that she had paved the way for his little trick by asking him what day of the week they had met; how easy she had made it for him!

Yet no matter how much she mulled the whole business over in her mind, Jean could not come to any definite conclusion about it. At one moment she would be thinking that Sandy, like herself, was simply the victim of an honest mistake; at another, she would feel that he had willfully deceived her—because, of course, must mean that he was not at all the sort of chap she had thought him to be.

AND yet, although this mental turmoil stayed with her through the rest of her train trip, she found, after a day or so, that it was losing its power to bother her.

Maplehurst was a long way from Dover. When Jean walked along the quiet, mapleshaded streets of the little town, or sat in the living room with her father and mother, or stopped to chat with this or that old acquaintance of her younger days, it was hard to believe that anything that happened in Dover mattered so very much, after all.

Maplehurst was not a large place; the bank of which her father was president was only three blocks from the old-fashioned, white-pillared house that had been the Dunn home for two generations. Jean fell into a habit she had acquired during her college vacation days; she would stroll out to the bank, along toward noon, go into her father's office, and wait for him to finish his morning's work so that she could take him home for lunch.

She was sitting on the corner of his desk on the morning of her third day in Maplehurst, waiting for him to complete a telephone call, when she chanced to notice, through the open doorway, that some workmen were being very busy in the lobby of the bank.

"Dad," she said, when he hung up the receiver, "what are those men doing out there?"

Mr. Dunn peeked out the door, and leaned back in his chair contentedly.

"Tear gas," he said briefly. "It's a new form of insurance against bank robbers."

"Tear gas?" she repeated. "How do you mean?"

He pushed back his chair and got up.

"Come on in," he said, "and I'll show you."

THEY walked across the lobby, went through an iron grill, and into the cashier's cage. Mr. Hobart, the cashier, bowed when Jean entered, stroked his lean chin, and said to Mr. Dunn, "Well, they're all most finished."

"See?" said Mr. Dunn. "Under the counter there are three little cylinders—see them? There's tear gas in them, under pressure, with concealed outlets on the lobby side of the counter. Now, you see where that man is installing that button effect, in the floor?"

He pointed, and Jean nodded. The worker looked up and grinned.

"That," said her father, "is what touches them off. Step on that, and the lobby'd be full of tear gas in 10 seconds. Now then, suppose this Jackson gang pays us a visit. They come up to the wicket, here, and point a gun at Mr. Hobart and tell him to put up his hands. He obeys, of course; but as he does so he reaches out with his foot—which they can't see him do, because he's only visible from the waist up to anyone on that side of the counter—he reaches out and touches that button. Wood! Out comes the tear gas, and there's nothing for the bandits to do but run. Next, isn't it?"

She looked at the contrivance, wide-eyed.

"But you've never had any robbers down here," she said.

"That doesn't mean we never will have any though," he said. "People like these Jackson gangsters seem to specialize in robbing small-town banks. And we have to be especially careful, because of the pottery plant payroll."

Six miles away there was a large factory, devoted to the manufacture of almost everything in the earthenware line from tiny flower vases up to great sections of sewer pipe in which a man could stand upright. A sprawling, slatternly town surrounded it and housed its workers; but the factory banked in Maplehurst, because one of its directors was a leading stockholder in the Maplehurst bank, and every other Saturday an armored car came over to Maplehurst, just before noon, and got the factory payroll.

Former Teacher Injured

L. V. Slothower, of Ashton, who was an instructor in the local high school last year figured in an auto accident at 12:30 A. M. when returning home from visiting his wife at Ottawa Saturday. The accident happened about two miles south of Amboy. Evidently Mr. Slothower had fallen asleep, when he lost control of his car. The jolt of the car upon leaving the road aroused him, and he pulled his car back too quickly and caused it to turn over. Mr. Slothower was thrown clear of the car through the top. He had two deep gashes in his head, one a five inch gash also a two inch gash. He was taken to the Amboy hospital where several stitches were taken. The car was badly wrecked. It was most fortunate that he was thrown clear of the car, or it is likely that he would have been more seriously injured. While here Mr. Slothower made many friends among the pupils and patrons, who will be glad to know that he was not hurt more seriously, and they will also be glad to learn that Mrs. Slothower is improving in health.

Fire Alarm The sounding of the fire siren about one o'clock Thursday morning brought a number of people to the streets inquiring where the fire was. The house owned by Miss Clara Lahman and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ives was on fire. By prompt action of the fire company the house was saved. Several large holes were burned in the roof. All of the furniture was carried from the house. The origin of the fire is unknown. Insurance was carried on the house.
